THREW HER BABY OUT OF WINDOW

Emmitsburg Woman, Mentally Deranged, Fails in Attempt to Kill her Child. Nail Saves Little One's Clothing.

While a dozen or more men stood in front of the house at 923 Central avenue, Baltimore, holding in their hands an improvised safety net made of an overcoat, Mrs. May Fowler, ran into the house next door, up to the second-story window and rescued a tiny bit of humanity that was hanging head downward on a nail. A young woman, said to be from Emmitsburg, is alleged to have become deranged and thrown her baby out of the second story window. The child's clothing caught on the nail, just below the window and its life was saved.

A determined effort on the part of the residents of the block was made to keep the matter from the ears of the police. It was learned from Mrs. Thomas Martin, with whom the young woman boarded, that the girl was taken into custody by her people.

A number of people passing the house saw the little baby, not more than two months old, dangling from the side of the wall. Soon a crowd of men and a few women were around the front of the house. They felt sure the child would fall and they waited patiently. All the time the little tot was waving its little arms in the air, while the rain was beating in its face.

Mrs. Fowler said she heard someone knocking at her door. She was in the kitchen. She opened it, and a man in the crowd told her that her baby was hanging out the window. She was sure it was not from her window, for her baby was in its own crib. Then she looked out and saw it was next door. She brushed the men aside and without a word opened the door and ran upstairs. There she found the mother in an apparent state of bewilderment, the window separating her from the anchored baby. She says she was so nervous and so indignant at the stupidity of the men below that she doesn't know exactly what happened. All she knows was that she raised the window, grabbed the infant and took it down stairs to be cared for.

Mrs. Martin said she didn't know anything about the excitement outside until Mrs. Fowler ran into the house and made the rescue. Then she cared for the young mother and sent for her sister. The girl was taken away from the house and the baby was turned over to the family in Emmitsburg, according to a dispatch from Baltimore.

JOHN S. WEAVER

Former Resident of New Oxford, Died in York.

Slight Injury Causes New Oxford Man Much Suffering.

Charles Hensil, of New Oxford, has been suffering with a very sore finger for some time. About three weeks ago while working in the Livingston shoe factory, he in some manner received a slight injury on the back of the middle finger of his left hand, but it gave him no trouble until two weeks afterward, when the finger became much inflamed and painful, and it was discovered that blood poisoning had developed. It is now much improved.

WOMAN CLEARED IN LARCENY CASE

Mrs. Bair, of Near Littlestown, Freed on Charge of Theft of Set of Handsome Furs from Store. Was Tried at York.

Mrs. Cora Bair, of near Littlestown, was acquitted by a jury in York County court on Wednesday of the larceny of a fur muff and neck piece from the Talbot store in Hanover.

A. M. Biddle, of Hanover, better known as "Greaser", who claims to have suspected her of shop lifting, testified that at the suggestion of the police he followed Mrs. Bair, who seemed to be carrying something concealed under her coat until she entered the greenhouse of P. E. Cremer, the florist. Mr. Cremer said Mrs. Bair came to the greenhouse and left without his seeing her go, while he was busy with another customer, and that about an hour after she left he found the furs in the greenhouse under some palms.

The furs were taken from the Talbot store on the afternoon in question, but Mrs. Bair denied having taken them and also that she was in Cremer's greenhouse. She said Mr. Cremer must have been mistaken. Mrs. Bair also produced a number of witnesses from her home community who testified to her good character. No one saw the furs taken and it was not discovered that they were missing until the goods were checked up in the evening after the store was closed.

The stolen articles were valued at $85.

WILL REBUILD MANY OLD ROADS

Preparing for Work on the State Highways. Stretch between Gettysburg and New Oxford Needs Immediate Attention.

State Highway Commissioner Bigelow, much improved in health, says that he proposes to go ahead now and endeavor to make 1914 a record year for road building in Pennsylvania. "I will do the best I can with what money I have," said Commissioner Bigelow, "and I think we can show results that will be satisfactory."

There is a little stretch between Gettysburg and New Oxford that might bear a little inspection by Mr. Bigelow just now.

The Legislative Committee of the Pennsylvania State Grange Wednesday night declared in favor of a biennial appropriation of $14,000,000 for good roads in Pennsylvania, all of the members favoring that sum as necessary to improve the highways. A formal resolution will be adopted and sent throughout the State.

The committee sent a telegram to President Wilson asking him to appoint a practical farmer on the Federal Reserve Board, and adopted resolutions favoring the nation-wide prohibition law.

The automobile division of the State Highway Department has been compelled by the rush of work to secure the services of a number of temporary clerks to engross the licenses that go with each tag. At present the tag room is sending out 2,400 a day, which is capacity, and it is rapidly catching up with the work, but the demand for licenses and tags continues and is greater than ever.

DISASTROUS FIRE

Lost Twelve Horses, Nine Cows and Ten Sheep in Fire.

Fire destroyed the large barn on the farm of D. Page Line, in West Pennsboro, Cumberland County, about one o'clock Wednesday morning, together with all the stock and other contents, entailing loss of several thousand dollars on which the insurance is not sufficient to cover.

Mr. Line's loss is very heavy for the reason that he was buying up stock etc., in order to start up his son in farming next spring. That accounts for his having twelve head of horses, nine cows, and ten head of sheep, all of which were lost in the fire.

The origin of the big fire is a mystery. Mrs. Line was up about one o'clock, when everything about the place apparently was all right.

About 1:15 the family were awakened by a raging fire at the barn which structure seemed to be ablaze all around. They hastened to the barn but even with the assistance of a goodly number of neighbors were unable to save the valuable stock. The flames made too rapid headway, and in the horse stable seemed to be fiercest. A favorable wind and hard work saved the large wagon shed. The house was not at any time in immediate danger. The hog pens and chicken coops also were saved, besides several other small buildings.

Besides the stock burned there was consumed together with the big barn all of the season's hay, straw, mill feed, bran, about 150 bushels of wheat, all the farming implements, all the gears, two big wagons, manure spreader, fodder shredder, plows, plow scales, forks, rakes and so forth.

A fire occurred at the home of M. E. Freed Wednesday morning between four and five o'clock. Mr. Freed was aroused by the noise of the flames which were rapidly eating their way from the fire place into the kitchen. He called his family, summoned neighbors by ringing the dinner bell, and after hard work the fire was put out. The blaze was caused by the dropping of burning soot from the chimney onto the timber that held up the piece of sheeting over the fireplace. This timber burned through, dropping the sheeting and allowing the flames to be communicated to the woodbox from where it burned through the doors at the fireplace. Little damage was done, due to the early discovery by Mr. Freed and the quick work by the family and their friends.

YOUNG KNOX OFF FOR BERMUDA WITHOUT WIFE

He Will Not Discuss Story of Separation.

New York, Jan. 8. — Phillander C.
Knox, Jr., son of the former secretary of state, who was reported to have been separated from his young bride, sailed for Bermuda, accompanied by his mother.

When asked about the report that he and his bride are living apart, young Knox said:

"You will have to get the dope about that out of the newspapers."

Mrs. Knox said that she and her son would remain in Bermuda about six weeks.

Mr. Knox married Miss May Boler, a salesgirl in a Providence, R. I., department store in March, 1910, against the wishes of his family. Later he went to work in a motor car factory, but finally became reconciled with his parents.

Family Are Reticent.

Philadelphia, Jan. 8.—Friends and relatives of the family of the former secretary of state were reticent regarding the rumor which was spread that the separation of young Knox and his wife was to be permanent. His father was not at his home near Valley Forge, and Reed Knox, a brother, was in Atlantic City, but where no one in his household seemed to know.

Young Mrs. Knox is said to have taken apartments in Philadelphia. She and her husband gave up their home at 202 Midland avenue, Wayne, several weeks ago, and at that time, it was said, young Mr. Knox went to the home of his parents.

PRESS POISON PEN CHARGE

Witnesses Against Miss Kate Davis Go Before Grand Jury.

Wilkes-Barre, Pa., Jan. 8.—Mrs. C.
J. Wallace, member of the county board of visitation and a prominent social worker, appeared before the grand jurors to present her case against Miss Kate Davis, superintendent of the National Regulation league and a well known social worker, in an effort to get a true bill against Miss Davis as the author of "poison pen" letters circulated in Wilkes-Barre.

In these letters Mrs. Wallace is called a "knave" and "a tool of politicians."

Mrs. Wallace and Fred C. Kirkenfall, who received a letter in which Mrs. Wallace is called a "knave," and the "tool of politicians," were the first witnesses.

Miss Mary Prescott, an attorney at law and a member of the city school board, was a witness. Miss Prescott received a "poison pen" letter, and through her Mrs. Wallace will try to identify the handwriting of Miss Davis.

SAYS SPANISH BOAT GAVE HIM NO HELP

Saw Oklahoma Wrecked But Left, Captain's Charge.

"A LIE," IS THE ANSWER

Gunter Declares Manuel Calvo Made No Real Attempt to Save Crew of Wrecked Tanker.

Boston, Jan. 8.—Captain Alfred Gunter, who, with seven other survivors of the foundered oil tank ship Oklahoma, arrived here on the Hamburg-American freighter Bavaria, accused the master of the Spanish steamer Manuel Calvo of making only the weakest of attempts to aid the Oklahoma.

The tanker, which was owned by the Gulf Refining company, was lost Sunday morning in the hurricane fifty-seven miles southeast of Sandy Hook.
Besides the eight men taken into Boston five others were picked up by the Booth liner Gregory and taken to New York. Three bodies were found in a lifeboat. Twenty-five men in all are believed to have lost their lives.

Captain Gunter and three of the other rescued officers were detained in Boston as witnesses in an investigation of the disaster by government inspectors. It is said a complete probe of the accusation against the commander of the Manuel Calvo will be made.

The four officers were suffering from wounds and frost bites and were so poorly clothed that the start of the investigation, which was secret, was delayed until they could receive medical treatment and obtain new outfits.

Captain Gunter held a conference with representatives of the Gulf Refining company soon after reaching Boston.

"The Manuel Calvo came up Sunday after the Oklahoma had broken her back off the New Jersey coast, but her crew made no effort to board us, although we were sinking," said Captain Gunter. "They lowered a boat, which came close to us, then returned.
It was maddening to see them raising that boat to the liner again, but it was vorse to see the ship steam away, leaving us to what we thought was inevitable death."

Captain Juan Bonet, master of the Manuel Calvo, is in New York now, and made an emphatic denial of the charge of Captain Gunter.

"It is a lie," cried Bonet. "I risked my ship to save those men. I have followed the sea thirty-five years, and this is the first breath of rebuke made against me."

"When we came upon the Oklahoma there was only one smooth patch of water, caused by oil coming from the wreckage. I launched a boat containing seven men, and they headed through the oil patch for the wreck.
The seas were too high, however, four of the men were swept away and the lifeboat began to fill with water.

"The boat was helpless, and four of the men were hurt. At great risk to my ship, for one of the Manuel Calvo's rudder chains had snapped, I turned my ship toward the sinking tanker.
Finally we rescued our own men."

"I could not rig up a breeches buoy, it was impossible in those seas, any seaman knows that. We stayed by the wreck, sending out continuous 'S. O. S.' calls, until the Bavaria and the Ten-adores came up. I did everything I could, even to risking the destruction of my own ship, and the chances are I will be up on charges for this when I get back to Spain."

BLAME PUBLIC FOR PRICES

Chicago Retail Grocers Say Consumer Is Responsible.

Chicago, Jan. 8.—Blame was fixed on the matter of the high cost of living.
Despite his clamor at the price of eggs and the price of meat and the price of everything, it is the consumer himself who is responsible for the situation.

That is the dictum of the Retail Grocers, the executive officers of whose national association met in Chicago.

"Did you ever hear of a foreigner crying about the high cost of living?" demanded Sol Westerfield, chairman of the trade relation committee of the national association. "You did not. It is the American or the very much Americanized foreigner who does the crying. Your real foreigner—and he is to be found in virtually all neighborhoods—may be a great meat eater, but when meat is high he cuts down on his supply."

CHAMBERLAIN OUT OF COMMONS

Venerable British Statesman to Retire.

HAS PASSED 78TH YEAR

Has Been Ill Eight Years and Decided to Retire at the Next General Election.

Birmingham, Eng., Jan. 8.—Joseph Chamberlain, the venerable British statesman, has decided to retire from parliament at the next general election.

Mr. Chamberlain has served continuously as a member of the house of commons since 1876, all this time representing West Birmingham.

In a letter addressed to the president of the Unionist Association of Birmingham, Chamberlain says:

"Before leaving for the south of France I think I ought to communicate to you the decision at which I have arrived to retire from parliament at the next general election. I have not come to this decision without many regrets at the severance of a connection which has already lasted over thirty-seven years and has been marked on the part of my constituents by ever-growing confidence and support."

"But I cannot hope again to do my work in parliament, and I feel that our city and the constituency of West Birmingham need the services of a younger man who will take an active part in the parliamentary struggle and help you to maintain the supremacy of the Unionist cause in Birmingham."

Mr. Chamberlain will leave Birmingham next week for London. After a few days there he will proceed to his usual winter visit to the south of France.

There has been no change for the worse in Mr. Chamberlain's condition recently. It is nearly eight years since he spoke in the house of commons, and nearly three years since he appeared there, and then only for a few minutes at the opening of the session of 1911, when he was assisted into the house in order that he might take the oath.

Joseph Chamberlain at the outset of his political career was a radical. He served under the late William Ewart Gladstone in several cabinets as president of the board of trade and president of the local government board.
He became a Unionist at the time of the break in the Liberal party over home rule for Ireland, and he was secretary of state for the colonies at the time of the Boer war. He is now seventy-eight years old.

Mr. Chamberlain has been married three times, his third wife, to whom he was married in 1888, being Mary Endicott, only daughter of the late W.
C. Endicott, secretary of war during President Cleveland's administration.
Mr. Chamberlain was the chief commissioner for the settlement of the North American fisheries dispute in 1887.

It is generally expected that Neville Chamberlain, a younger son of the retiring statesman, will become Unionist candidate for West Birmingham in succession to his father.

IRISH OFFICIAL IN PERIL

Bullet Fired Through Window of Chief Secretary Birrell's Office.

Dublin, Jan. 8.—The police began an investigation of a supposed attempt to assassinate August Birrell, chief secretary for Ireland.

A bullet was fired through the window of Mr. Birrell's office in Dublin Castle, but he was out of the room at the time.

A sentry at the castle said he heard no report, which led the police to believe the bullet had been fired from an argun or from a weapon with a Maksim silencer attached.

Two theories were suggested, one that the shot was fired as a protest against the government investigation of the Dublin riots; the other that it was fired by a sympathizer of the suf-ragettes.

Women Asked to Study Foreigners.

Harrisburg, Pa., Jan. 8.—Study of the living conditions and wages of the foreign population of Pennsylvania, and especially of the immigrants, is to be undertaken at once by the state department of labor and industry, under the provision contained in the act of 1913, and Commissioner John Price Jackson has asked all of the women's clubs of the state to co-operate.

Autos in U. S. Double Since 1911.

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 8.—The number of automobiles registered in the United States has more than doubled since 1911. In that year, according to com-pilations made public by the secretary of state here, the number was 523,000. Last year 1,128,000 cars were registered. New York state leads with a total registration of 135,000 and Nevada brings up the rear with 1141.

46 Brazilian Banks Involved In Failure Sao Paulo, Brazil, Jan. 8.—The failure was announced here of the Incorporadora Company of Sao Paulo. The failure involves forty-six banks in the principal towns of the state of Sao Paulo. The banks affected were all founded by the Incorporadora company. Several foreign banks are said to be the principal creditors.

TURN HAIR DARK WITH SAGE TEA

If Mixed with Sulphur It Darkens so Naturally

Nobody can Tell

The old-time mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur for darkening gray, streaked and faded hair is grandmother's treatment, and folks are again using it to keep their hair a good, even color, which is quite sensible, as we are living in an age when a youthful appearance is of the greatest advantage.

Nowadays, though, we don't have the troublesome task of gathering the sage and the mussy mixing at home. All drug stores sell the ready-to-use product called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy" for about 50 cents a bottle. It is very popular because nobody can discover it has been applied. Simply moisten your comb or a soft brush with it, and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, but what delights the ladies with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur is that, besides beautifully darkening the hair after a few applications, it also produces that soft luster and appearance of abundance which is so attractive; besides, prevents dandruff, itching scalp and falling hair.

Learning a Language.

The time to learn a language is when you are young, the younger the better. We learn our own language as children. The older we grow the harder it is, because it means not merely learning by heart a great many words, not merely training the palate and tongue to produce different sounds, but adapting a new attitude of mind.—Atlantic Monthly.
